

ONEOK NAMES MAREBURGER CHIEF INFORMATION OFFICER

June 26, 2007

TULSA, Okla., June 26, 2007 /PRNewswire-FirstCall via COMTEX News Network/ -- ONEOK, Inc. (NYSE: OKE) announced today that Robert S. Mareburger, 45, will become chief information officer, effective July 1, 2007.

In his new position, he will report to David Roth, ONEOK senior vice president, administrative services, and will be responsible for leading the company's information technology strategy and execution, including software, applications and systems. Previously, ONEOK's information technology function was managed by Roth.

"Bob's experience and expertise will be valuable as we continue to optimize the use of information technology to improve our business processes and support growth at ONEOK and ONEOK Partners," said Roth.

Mareburger most recently served as general manager, information technology and chief information officer, for CITGO Petroleum Corp. in Tulsa from 1999-2006. Prior to joining CITGO, he spent several years at Andersen Consulting, now Accenture, where he managed the design and development of a new generation of software for upstream oil and gas operations.

Active in community affairs, he currently serves on the city of Tulsa's Technology Board and is a second-term member of the University of Tulsa's College of Business Executive Advisory Board. He has also held leadership roles in United Way and Muscular Dystrophy Association corporate campaigns.

Mareburger received a Bachelor of Science degree in petroleum engineering and a master's degree in business administration from the University of Oklahoma.
